Kim,

I hope you enjoyed your weekend! Thank you again for your time last week.

I did quite a bit of research on The Ohio State University careers website.

I'm very interested in pursuing the Development area of focus. I'd appreciate the opportunity to discuss how my skills set would support the Development Department.

Would you be available for a 15 minute call this week to review them with me before I apply?

See Lori's note below.

When I think about a role for her - I think corporate and business development. Presently salaries are higher for those positions based in ERIK vs in Advancement and there is one open that might suit her. Suggest she look at that role if she hasn't already. I will keep thinking about more.

Hi Sara,

Yes, there are two vacant positions. The first is Mike Wiseman's Director level position and the second is a Business Development Coordinator. Based on the CV, she's best suited for the Director level role.

Thanks,

Kim,

I hope you enjoyed your weekend! Thank you again for your time last week.

I did quite a bit of research on The Ohio State University career website.

I'm very interested in pursuing the Development area of focus. I'd appreciate the opportunity to discuss how my skills set would support the Development Department.

Would you be available for a 15 minute call this week to review them with me before I apply?

Last night, while checking on the applications I'd already submitted...the system suggested the Chief Advancement Officer role. I'm curious why it didn't bubble last week...especially since shows it was posted 30+ days ago.

I'm extremely interested in this role.

Super excited to speak with you tomorrow!

Hi Kim -

Thank you again for your help scheduling today's call. I really enjoyed my time with Sara!

I learned a tremendous amount about the university and department.

We discussed the Advancement opportunities at length and agreed I'm not a fit.

However, we did discuss possibly exploring Corporate Engagement New Business as it develops.

All the above being said...

Do you think it's a good idea I let Alex know Sara and I agree Advancement is not a fit and ask if he'd still like to have the call?

Thank you,
Krisanthe

Hi Kim -

Thank you again for your help scheduling today's call. I really enjoyed my time with Sara!

I learned a tremendous amount about the university and department.

We discussed the Advancement opportunities at length and agreed I'm not a fit.

However, we did discuss possibly exploring Corporate Engagement New Business as it develops.

All the above being said...

Do you think it's a good idea I let Alex know Sara and I agree Advancement is not a fit and ask if he'd still like to have the call?

Thank you,
Krisanthe

Kim,

If Sara says she's not a good fit, probably not much I can offer her on my end. That being said, I can get her connected with my recruiting contacts in Columbus just to go the little extra mile with her!

Hi Kim,

Following up.

I met with Krisanthe.

She really wants to be here....

I can't figure out what the motivation is. I asked her and she told me a convoluted story. At any rate, clearly a hard charger and connected, I think. No experience in our large complex environment. No development experience as you know. She kept describing how she might be able to bring her connections in energy to Ohio State. It sounded like a consulting or brokering she was considering and when I asked her about that she indicated that she is building that sort of model now. Would be a conflict of interest here and not how we do business. I asked Mike to look at her resume too and he was aligned with my assessment.

I answered her questions about culture and what we are looking for in each of the positions. I think she left the call with a much better understanding of the roles and knew they were not a fit.

I did bring up the possible roles in ERIK but said they were not posted yet. I asked Lorri about that this morning, and she said, they are likely looking at mid/late August before these get posted given that we're already toward the end of July.

As you can see, she wants another call next week. Can you talk with her about the pros and cons of living in Columbus?

Thanks,
Sara

Sara,

Thank you for your time and thoughtful insight today. I learned a tremendous amount about the Advancement department. I completely understand why and agree others are better suited for the roles I applied.

It will be interesting to explore together the New Business role being developed for Corporate Engagement.

I truly enjoyed speaking with you. I hope to have the pleasure of meeting in person in the near future.

Regardless if there's ever a place for me at The Ohio State University....

I would appreciate it if I may occasionally engage you as a sounding board for my current mission to make difference for our Veterans and Power Utility industry. Perhaps we're crossing paths for a different reason than a role with the university?

On a different note...I'm still considering Columbus because it places me nearly equidistant from Angelo and Harry.

Columbus is within manageable driving distance of both sons and various east coast destinations. Flights seem reasonable with plenty of directs.

My house closes 8/9, so I'm working on options/ideas over the next few weeks where I'd like to eventually call home.

Would you be available for a 15 minute call next week to hear your take regarding pros and cons living in Columbus?

Kindest regards,
Krisanthe

Good Morning Kim,

Thank you a million times for connecting me with Linda! I can't wait to tour Columbus to start contemplating home for my next chapter.

I'm including Linda in all relo related conversations.

Linda reminded me for furnished temp housing you have a different resource you use. However, she mentioned she knows where the buildings are to include in the tour.

I'm very interested in viewing, as well as understanding cost, furnished temporary housing for 3-6 months until I acclimate.

How would you suggest we proceed with all the above?

Thanks again,
Krisanthe
